Welcome to the new edition of our product newsletter

Introduction

Dear customers, partners and agents,

I am very pleased to introduce myself to you today as the new Product Manager at TRIKNO AG. In my role, I am responsible for developing our products, identifying new market opportunities and ensuring that we best meet your needs today and in the future.

About me

My name is Daniel Nyögeri, and my professional focus has been on product development, customer experience design and the internationalization of technological solutions for many years.

I look forward to sharing transparent insights into our product world with you and further strengthening the cooperation.

What you can expect in this newsletter in the future

Since our products are used in many markets, I would like to offer you regularly updated information that is relevant for all our target groups:

- Product Highlights – Compact Insights into Existing Solutions
- Updates & roadmap – what we are improving or planning
- Tips & best practices – for the optimal use of our products

Mini-Spotlight: Product in Focus (First Teaser)

In the coming issues, we will dedicate ourselves to a specific product.
You will learn:

- ✓ What makes it special
- ✓ What problems it solves
- ✓ How customers use it successfully
- ✓ What improvements we are currently evaluating

In the next issue we will start with:

Spiral – the ideal transport system

Your opinion is important!

To ensure that this newsletter is as useful as possible for you, I look forward to your feedback:

- What topics would you like to see?
- Which products should we introduce first?
- What challenges are you experiencing in your market?

Thank you for your trust!

Best regards

Daniel Nyögeri

Product Manager, TRIKNO AG
